LEWIS' CONTEMPT TRIAL MOVING TO A SWIFT CLIMAX

Jury Scheduled To Present Evidence To Show Lewis "Technically Guilty"

HEAR REPORTER

Defense Calls Many Witnesses, Speedy Trial End Seen

By Phillips J. Peck

L. N. S. Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(INS)—John L. Lewis' contempt trial moves swiftly toward a climax today with a jury scheduled to present evidence designed to prove that the union leader is at least technically guilty.

In today's session opening at 10 a. m., Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough plans to place a court reporter on the stand to repeat the statements made by Lewis' attorneys Nov. 25.

At that time, Welly K. Hopkins, counsel for the union, said that Lewis and the UMW "have done no wrong nor spoken any word" pertaining to the notice terminating the miners wage contract since the union's order was issued requiring withdrawal of the notice.

Judge Goldsborough strongly indicated his belief that Hopkins' statement was an admission that the defendants did not obey the restraining order and therefore are in a position of at least technical contempt of the court.

The jurist's surprise move came when the Government completed its case. Unless the defense calls a number of witnesses, the trial promises to wind up speedily. There is no indication that Lewis will take the stand.

Outside the court battle, the board of directors of the Southern Coal Producers Association will conclude a two-day conference in Washington today with a statement on the issue of resuming contract negotiations with the UMW.

Association President Edward R. Burke touched off a row within the organization last week. He said the miners would be willing to resume talks with Lewis where they broke off last spring. If the 400,000 miners would return to work.

Ten directors of the association immediately repudiated Burke's statement. They said such negotiations should not be held while the dispute is in the courts. Some directors were reported seeking Burke's ouster as president of the association.

Who Helped Launch T. B. Ass'n Are Honored

Likenesses of four individuals who were instrumental in helping to launch what is known today as the National Tuberculosis Association appear on the center stamp in each page of Christmas seals this year.

The four thus honored are: Leigh Mitchell Hodges, Philadelphia columnist; the late E. A. Van Valkenburg, a native of Wellsboro, and ne-time editor and president of the Philadelphia North American; the late Miss Emily Bissell, pioneer social worker; and Jacob Riis, social reformer and author.

It was through the co-operation of the late Mr. Van Valkenburg that the Christmas Seal idea and its tie-up with Tuberculosis Association formed a partnership with Red Cross in 1919, and assumed sponsorship of the Christmas seal. Norman H. Ryan, Radcliffe street, is a nephew of the late Mr. Van Valkenburg.

JUDGE FINDS LEWIS AND UNION GUILTY OF CONTEMPT

Washington—Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough at 11:30 a. m. today formally found John L. Lewis and the UMW guilty of contempt of court.

He then asked for the views of the defense and Government attorneys regarding what punishment should be administered.

For this reason, Goldsborough said he would adjourn court until 10 a. m., EST, tomorrow.

In the meantime, at the request of Government Attorney Sonnett, Lewis was placed in the custody of defense counsel.

Sonnett made his suggestion in reply to Goldsborough's question of whether Lewis should be held under bond pending tomorrow's session.

Immediately after Judge Goldsborough had announced early today that he would find Lewis and his Union guilty, Lewis began making a statement to the Court.

Lewis rose to his feet after his counsel, Joseph A. Padway, inquired if the Court intended to find Lewis guilty of contempt, and Goldsborough replied: "That's right."

Goldsborough accepted the Government's "findings of fact and conclusions of law" in the case and asserted:

"The findings of fact are arrived at from the evidence and from the evidence the conclusions of law are inevitable."

Padway then observed the next thing for the Court to do was to pass sentence.

Goldsborough replied that that was the next step in procedure.

It was at this point that Lewis began his statement to the Court.

Lewis read from a prepared statement in which he maintained again that the Clayton Act and the Norris-LaGuardia Act specifically exempted labor unions from injunctions and court orders.

He said that the acts provided "that no court of the United States shall have the jurisdiction to issue any restraining order or temporary or permanent injunction in a case involving or growing out of a labor dispute."

Lewis continued that in the opinion of the United Mine Workers the present case is a labor dispute and "nothing else but a labor dispute."

The scarcity of game and the manner in which the sportsmen must improve conditions in general were discussed Friday at the November meeting of Bucks County Fish and Game Association in the K. G. E. building, Doylestown.

Everyone agreed that the only successful method for keeping a sufficient number of rabbits and birds in the field is for the Game Commission to buy or raise them. Conservation may help a lot, they agreed, and crow shoots and trapline foxes help, too, but these methods do not leave the game in the field in a large enough quantity.

The association members expressed the opinion that the Game Commission should use every means at their disposal to improve the conditions.

Criminal charges against President Pettilio of the musicians' union growing out of demands upon radio stations were dismissed when a Federal Court held the Lee act unconstitutional. The Government will appeal.

COURTS FOR LABOR?

A proposal which is gaining support is that a new form of courts be set up to hear labor-management disputes, arbitrate them in compulsory fashion, and punish those who violate the terms of the court decisions.

Since it is very likely that such a plan will be laid before the next Congress, it is decidedly worth while to study the suggestion.

To begin with, it is a hopeful sign to find people turning again in their thinking to the judicial branch of government. Government by law, and the interpretation of those laws by impartial and competent judges, are principles largely lost sight of in this country during the past few years.

Furthermore, the mere fact that the suggestion has received favorable reaction shows a recognition of the need for an impartial attitude on the part of government in such disputes.

One of the great distinctions between Republican and New Deal approaches to labor problems lies in this field. The Republican party's view is that government should be the impartial friend and umpire between management and labor. The New Deal slant has been that it was the partisan friend of labor and the prejudiced enemy of "capital."

But, however gratifying it may be to find a more sound and rational point of view towards labor problems taking hold in this country, there are very grave objections to the proposed "specialist" labor courts.

The most obvious, of course, lies in the question of how such a court would go about making the members of a labor union carry out its rulings.

Despite the defects in the present laws, the real trouble in this nation during the Truman Administration has risen, not out of the laws themselves, but from non-enforcement of the laws.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

No Room For A Draw

Washington, Dec. 3. HAVING refused to yield to the indefensible demands of Mr. John L. Lewis and elected to fight him, instead of surrendering to him (as did his predecessor, Mr. Roosevelt, during the war) the one thing President Truman cannot now do is to weaken. That would be fatal.

He simply has got to see it through. Fortunately, there is every reason to believe that such is his firm purpose. "Guts" is not an elegant word but it is expressive, and the testimony of those who know him best and longest is that Mr. Truman has them. He is not a great man and does not pretend to be. But, unless his friends are badly mistaken, he is not a man who can be pushed around. Nor will he run away from a fight.

TERRACE TENANTS ASK GOVERNMENT TO REOPEN PLAN

74 Tenants Say They Are Interested in Purchasing Houses

DISCUSS THE PROJECT

Some Disagreement As To Fair Price For The Properties

At a meeting of the Bristol Terrace Civic Association last evening, 74 people, representing the heads of a like number of families, signed a petition to reopen negotiations with the F. P. H. A. towards a mutual ownership corporation plan.

The meeting was called to order by the president, John Fowler, who stated the committee appointed at the last meeting to investigate the price the government had quoted for the houses in Project I had done a lot of work, and he called on William P. Alderdice to give a report.

Mr. Alderdice said: "At the meeting held some time ago it was voted that the committee should get outside opinions of the value of the houses. Therefore they contacted Hugh B. Eastburn, Esq., who, Mr. Alderdice said, told them he does not think they are not getting a fair deal, but he felt it was fair and just. Mr. Eastburn was also quoted as informing the committee that he based his opinion on the fact the houses have all the utilities, including bus service, and the cost of similar houses on the market today. Mr. Eastburn is also said to have stated the men from Philadelphia who appraised the properties for the government are very capable men."

Mr. Alderdice said in his report that the playground and administration building would more than likely be given to the township as upon investigation he could not find what would be done with these properties. He said: "There are about 10,000 such units being sold in the nation and the government feels it has made a just and fair price as Congress made the plans for the sale of the houses. Mr. Alderdice stated it is a wrong belief that you can never own your own house in the mutual ownership corporation plan. It is believed the whole project can be bought for around $600,000, which would mean each owner would only have to put down about $175. The government holds a clear title to the property. As yet the committee does not know any more about prices than they did in July."

Mr. Alderdice stated that if the owners plan went through it would take in the Terrace community

HULMEVILLE COUNCIL HAS MONTHLY MEETING

Variety of Items Discussed, Including Drawing Up of Building Code

PROBLEM OF SPEEDING

HULMEVILLE, Dec. 3.—A variety of items were discussed by members of Hulmeville borough council last evening in the town hall when the December session took place.

Members discussed condition of sidewalks, one councilman mentioning that both property owners and borough are liable to suit in case of accident due to neglected sidewalks.

Possibility of drawing up a building code is to be discussed with the borough solicitor at an early date. It was reported to council that giving of grades preparatory to acceptance of Ford, Betz and Lincoln avenues, is now dependent upon the surveyor in charge of the work. The street committee was instructed to urge advancement of this phase as soon as the said surveyor returns from a vacation trip.

The secretary, Frank Forker, reported that information from the state police at Langhorne barracks regarding assistance in breaking up speeding through the borough, was to the effect that those officers cannot do regular patrol duty, but will upon occasion assist in such.

Samuel J. Hilck presided, other councilmen present being Ned

ENDING THE WAR

There is speculation as to whether one of the first acts of the new Congress will be to declare the war officially at an end. This step would automatically cancel the extraordinary powers of the government, in some cases immediately and in others in from six months to a year.

An intricate network of laws and procedures has been built up under these war-born powers, affecting nearly every department and function of the government. But a simple roll call in Congress can wipe them out.

How complicated the network of red tape has become was demonstrated when some Congressmen hollered for a special session of Congress to pass legislation to deal with the coal strike. Their cries were ignored. The consensus is that the time has arrived for Congress to enact laws for the courts to administer, instead of granting additional authoritarian power to the central government.

But the development demonstrated that it will require hard work, careful planning and drastic action to extricate the nation from the morass of bureaucracy.

FEDERAL HANDOUTS

One of the things that have pained Rep. John Taber of New York—as well as thousands of taxpayers—for many years is government press agency. Under the put-out-the-money policy that has been in effect propagandists and public relations men have been in their glory. The press agents of the various branches of the government, better heeled with money and manpower than ever in the past, have been flooding the nation with an enormous and constant stream of press releases on every conceivable subject under the sun.

As the man slated to become chairman of the House Appropriations Committee in the new Congress, Mr. Taber is now in a position to do something about this. There is little doubt that if he gets his way, a pack of public relations men now on the federal payroll will be looking for new jobs "propaganda staffs," he says, "never tell the truth if they can help it, and these so-called public relations staffs were set up in the first place to cover up the iniquities of the departments."

Some of the handouts which these staffs prepare contain information useful to the public and the press. But no one who is familiar with the mass of handouts which flow out from government offices, day after day, can doubt that this form of activity now exceeds all reasonable limits. According to a census taken by the Byrd committee, more than 23,000 individuals on the federal payroll were engaged in "educational, informational, promotional and publicity" activities during the last fiscal year, and approximately an equal number were devoting part of their time to this same field.

Few persons bother to read the mass of press releases with which they are bombarded and cutting off the flow will save people the trouble of tossing them in the wastebasket.

COURTS FOR LABOR?

There are two reasons. First is the obvious political anxiety of the members of the Truman staff to do nothing which might lose them "labor votes". In fact, the political history of the past eighteen months might be summarized in the observation that President Truman worried so much about losing a few CIO votes he wound up losing practically all the others.

How could it be prevented that the findings of the "labor courts", and the enforcement of them, be based on politics rather than justice and fair play? There's no good answer to that question which would not offer a remedy to the weaknesses of the present methods, without necessitating a change.

The second reason why enforcement has conspicuously failed is indecision on the part of the Truman advisors in the matter of how to "compel" obedience to labor decisions.

There are those who insist, "you can't force men to work, even with the point of a bayonet." This is one point of view. Granting, for the sake of argument that it is true, where does that leave the proposed new courts? What special means of coercion could they use which are not already available to the executive branch of the national government?

Of course, no one really thinks that "you can't make men work." It can be done. It is, however, an unpleasant alternative. It would be just as unpleasant for any new judiciary as for the present Truman government.

But the President has suffered a special handicap in the use of force. He has, so to speak, stumbled over his own feet. He is committed to a concept which he inherited, that of the closed shop. It is through the closed shop that unions have been able to set up monopolies or "labor trusts."

Whether or not, as an abstract matter, closed shops are good or bad, there is no question that a government committed to supporting the closed-shop principle is in a weak position to enter upon what, as in the case of the coal strike, amounts to nothing more nor less than "strike-breaking."

Now, whatever one may conclude in his own mind about the advisability of closed shops, it certainly is obvious that no new form of court would be in any better position than the President himself to reconcile the irreconcilable principles of the closed shop and "compulsion" of unions.

Going still further into this field of discussion, it is becoming more and more obvious that the present difficulties do not lie in the judicial field at all, unless we are to adopt that monstrosity of any form of government, "executive" courts.

There is a much simpler way of getting at the real conflict. Certain labor leaders of the John L. Lewis type have set themselves above the law. There are countless instances in which the laws of contracts have been brushed aside, when laws concerning peace and good order have been ignored, and when the law enforcement agencies of government have been defied.

Again and again, strikes which are not against private management by any stretch of imagination, but which are strikes of union against union, or union against government, or union against the whole American people, have been condoned by the national leaders.

Now, if strikes against government are not anarchy, what else can they be? And anarchy is a matter for executive action, not for judicial consideration.

From this point of view, whenever a labor union or a labor boss sets at defiance the prestige and sanctity of the government, and flaunts the superior interests of the whole people, then it has forfeited its standing before the law.

Until it has been persuaded or compelled to resume its proper status in the American structure, it cannot come into court, in the old phrase, "with clean hands."

The last thing to which it is entitled, under such circumstances, and after such lawless conduct, is to have a special court set up where it could seek to justify acts which do not have, and cannot have, any true justification.

When you come down to cases, there is not a single blessed thing which a new labor court could do about the labor problem which could not be done better by existing agencies of government.

The Great Game of Politics

THE battle he is in now in some ways is a far more vital one than any in which a President has engaged in our time—and the stakes could hardly be higher. His opponent is ruthless, resourceful, experienced, highly intelligent, financially powerful, deeply entrenched, solidly backed and ably defended. He has defied the law, the courts, the Congress and the President. As Mr. Walter Lippmann trenchantly says, he is in conflict with all the branches of the Government of the United States. Clearly, this fight must go to the finish. So far as the President—and the country, too—is concerned, to lose now is unthinkable—but to permit it to end in a draw is almost equally so.

WHILE it is true Mr. Lewis has defeated Presidents before, never before has the issue been so clearly drawn, the consequences of defeat been so unmistakably dire or the country brought so close to the brink of economic disaster. This time the President is armed with a public sentiment such as has existed in no previous engagement between the Government and the labor professionals. In the past when demands have been presented, the Government has been afraid or unwilling to fight. It has humiliatedly acquiesced. It has been more than halfway on the side of the unions, which is the real reason for the present intolerable state of affairs. It never could have come about but for the calculated coupling and degrading alliances of the Roosevelt regime.

NOW, for the first time, the link between the White House and the unions has been broken and the showdown has come. For the first time the President, instead of lying down, is standing up to fight. That the American people are overwhelmingly with Mr. Truman in this struggle there is not the shadow of a doubt. Except for the professional labor bosses, their political stooges and dupes, the only opposition comes from the radical groups whose aim is to promote chaos. Except for these, the people are solidly supporting him—and this is the reason he is bound to win in the end. The cost will be very great. It already is great, and in the end it will be enormous. Hardships will ensue. There will be vast losses, much suffering and many scars. No one will escape unaffected.

BUT the country can take it. The country can take anything—except another surrender to Mr. Lewis. That is out. No one wants to think of the kind of country this would be to live in if that were now to happen. So what would be our situation abroad as well as at home. What the people want now is to have the American people, and this nation for contempt is by no means all he has. There are plenty of other legal weapons available before Congress meets to enact preventive laws that will make a reputation of this national bludgeoning impossible. The United Mine Workers' union can be prosecuted under the anti-trust laws. Its funds can be impounded. It can be heavily fined. Indictments against its officers under the Smith-Connally bill can be secured.

THERE are plenty of things to do and the public sentiment is very much in favor of doing all of them. The one thing public sentiment does not favor is letting Mr. Lewis get away with a face-saving compromise—another partial triumph. It is understandable that while the present court proceedings are continuing that it would be improper for Mr. Truman to address the people on the subject. It could be said Mr. Truman to address the public to influence the court. But once the decision has been rendered, it is to be hoped that he will take the earliest opportunity to present the whole picture to them—that he will "lay it on the line" and stand by his guns.

EASTON — (GNS) — Here's a fish story to end tall tales. J. E. Fretz was standing on a bank of the Delaware River when he spied a fish swimming toward him. He reached into the water and grabbed it. The fish was—you guessed it—a sucker.

A Smart Good Looks Schedule

A quick, dry shampoo will take the dinginess out of your hair between regular washings.

By HELEN FOLLETT

HAVE you a good looks schedule? In the long run of the years it will count a lot. Of course, if you are a sweet young thing, time means nothing but the ticking of the clock. But many a middle-aged woman wishes she had started her 100 year war against Time long ago. There are changes in appearance between twenty and thirty, even more between thirty and forty. Every mother of a teen age girl should insist that daughter cream her complexion, especially during the winter season.

The career girl should devote at least a half hour every night to matters of the toilette. A warm bath will take tiredness out of her bones after a weary day, and goodness knows there is little time for bathing in the morning.

Before the Bath

Before the bath she should remove make-up with a thin cream, so some remain on the skin after scrubbing her svelte shape.

Oil and moist air combined cleanse the pores of atmospheric dust that may have dug in. A quick friction with a bath tonic will insure against goose flesh on the arms and legs.

After the hair brushing there should be a three minute scalp massage just in case the glorious thatch has an idea it may do a little moult. Take a quick, dry shampoo if your hair begins to look dingy and you haven't time to wash it.

To keep the fingernails in healthy condition and to avoid hang nails, a cuticle cream should be applied though one can use the leavings of an anointing the complexion cream will not disturb the polish on the talons, so do not be afraid to use it. When it has softened the flesh around the nails, lift the cuticle gently with the orange wood stick. If that treatment becomes a nightly practice you will never have a hang-nail to make you as mad.

Terrace Tenants Ask Gov't To Reopen Plan

store, which would bring in some revenue for the ownership corporation. In closing he asked everyone to sign the petition to reopen negotiations so that the committee can talk it over with the F. P. H. A.

Mr. Fowler read the paragraph in the plan covering individual ownership and explained just what it meant and how they would gain individual ownership.

The different members present gave their opinions both for and against the plan. One member stated all the utilities were put in by the government and he would like to know what would become of them. The president stated he could not answer that as he could not find out whether they would be given or sold to the township.

Mr. Alderice said, at this point, that if there were not at least 51% of the tenants willing to buy the houses in one plan or the other, they would then go to the next priority, which would be the G.I.'s.

One of the members stated that with individual ownership you could sell your property at any time or make any alterations and changes you wish without burdening the rest of the community.

There being no more comments by the members the president said: "The main reason for this meeting was to get the petition to reopen negotiations for the mutual ownership plan." Mr. Fowler said he did not know if negotiations would be reopened as it had been voted down at the last meeting which was held in July. If it can be reopened the committee will have more information for them and there will be someone from the government to explain the plan at the next meeting.

The petition reads as follows: "We, the undersigned residents of Bristol Terrace No. 1, Bristol, Pa., hereby petition the F. P. H. A. to reopen negotiations toward the mutual ownership corporation plan, for the purchase of dwellings, etc., in Bristol Terrace No. 1, Bristol, Pa. At the time of original presentation of this mutual ownership corporation plan to the tenants, insufficient information was given, causing them to reject said plan at the time."

The petition was signed by 74 individuals. Mr. Fowler stated the petition would be taken to the members who were not present to be signed, after which the meeting adjourned.

ewis' Contempt Trial Moving To Swift Climax

The Government will use the Big and Little Inch petroleum pipelines to transport natural gas to Indiana, Ohio and possibly Pennsylvania. Interior Secretary J. A. Krug said he hoped the first gas can be piped through the lines in five or six days. President Truman plans a strong message to Congress next month asking for new labor legislation. The President has scheduled a news conference at 4 p. m. EST, today, is first since the coal walkout ended.

Dr. Philip Hauer, assistant to the Secretary of Commerce, testified Lewis' trial that continuance of the mine shutdown for two months will throw five million people out of work. He said it would cause a decline of 25 per cent in national production.

Another Government witness estimated that under the most stringently economical use of coal present stockpiles would last no longer than next March 1.

TWO for the price of one! Sounds like bargain days are back again. Matter of fact, they are... when you buy electricity. Despite soaring costs for almost everything that enters into everyday living, and everything in business, too—your electric company is providing electricity for close to half the price of fifteen years ago.

Thank your neighbors who operate Philadelphia Electric for that. They have found better ways to do things, and have stepped up performance all along the line so that the great convenience of electricity could be yours for less.

During the same fifteen years the average home in this area has more than doubled its use of electricity. All of which spells less work and brighter living. It spells a lot more for your money, too, every time you snap an electric switch.

ELECTRICITY NOW COSTS LESS THAN EVER BEFORE IN THE HISTORY OF THIS COMPANY.

BUY THE VACUUM CLEANER THAT IS BEST FOR NEEDS

By MISS EDITH HOPKINS
Home Economics Representative
Vacuum cleaners are gradually coming back on the market, but before buying one, homemakers are urged to consider carefully the type they would find most useful.

There are two types of cleaners—the upright and the tank. The upright will do floor-level cleaning, removing surface litter, dust, and embedded dirt through suction and a soft beating of the carpet. A tank cleaner is good for smooth-surface cleaning and where there is more above-the-floor cleaning.

The tank cleaner comes with many attachments to help do its work. At first the attachments may seem stiff and awkward to handle but their uses around the house are almost unlimited. Here are some of the points to look for in buying a cleaner: Self-adjustment or too control adjustment for rugs of various thicknesses.

A convenient headlight to light up dark corners and under furniture. Long-wearing rubber covered cord.

A rubber furniture guard around cleaner to prevent marring furniture.

Wheels or gliders that won't mar carpets.

An efficient but not clumsy dust bag.

Recently in a nation-wide poll most people guessed that steel profits were about 20 cents on each dollar of sales. They said 10 cents would be about right. Actually, for the past ten years steel company profits have averaged less than 5 cents on each dollar of sales. Although profits continue low, wages, employment and production are near record levels.

EMPLOYMENT
The number of wage earners is not far from the highest in peacetime steel history—20 per cent above the 1929 level.

PRODUCTION
Despite strikes earlier in the year, steel production in 1946 was headed toward a new peacetime record until the November coal strike.

WEEKLY WAGES
Weekly wages in steel industry in the third quarter of 1946 were 63% higher than in 1939.

STEEL COMPANY PROFITS
Average profit per dollar of sales in 1946 is lower than it was in most good prewar years.

Ashenfelter-Lahr Wedding Attracts During Week-End

CROYDON, Dec. 3.—In the rectory of St. Thomas Aquinas R. C. Church on Saturday at 3:30 p. m., the Rev. Joseph Rodgers officiated at the wedding of Miss Ashenfelter, Croydon, and Mr. Howard Ashenfelter, Lindenwald, N. J. The double ring ceremony was used.

For her wedding, the former Miss Lahr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lahr, Sr., Main street, chose a white taffeta and lace gown. Over a taffeta skirt there were two skirts of lace, the top one ending in a short train. Long, tight-fitting sleeves of taffeta ended in points over the hands. Her three-quarter length veil of illusion was held by a tiara of lace and seed pearls. White kid sandals were worn and she carried an arm bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Carl Schuetz, sister of the bride, wore a gown of aqua taffeta with fitted bodice and sweetheart neckline. Small pink bows extended from the neckline to the waistline and also were in evidence on the full skirt. Her aqua veil was held by a silver sequin tiara, and she wore silver sandals. Her arm bouquet was of yellow chrysanthemums.

The groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ashenfelter, Lindenwald, was attended by Mr. Carl Schuetz. A reception was held in Croydon Fire Co. station for 150 guests.

For the ceremony, Mrs. Lahr, mother of the bride, wore a black chiffon gown over white figured taffeta, black accessories, and a white and pink chrysanthemum corsage.

After a short honeymoon trip, the newly-married couple will make their home with the bride's parents. The bride is a graduate of Bensalem high school. The groom, who served over 2½ years with the Army Air Corps, was recently discharged.

Gracious Father we rejoice that Thou art not alone our creator and sustainer, but our companion and friend as well. Help us to know this both in sunshine and shadow. Teach us that Thou art near to hear our call. Enlarge our strength and courage. Keep us steadfast in our struggles for the things which make for righteousness. Give us a childlike faith. Help us to commit ourselves to Thy care. Make us supremely confident that Thou wilt care for us. This we ask in Thy Name. Amen.

EAGLES TOP CELTICS IN THE FIRST GAME OF YOUTH LEAGUE

Third Ward Team Takes Opener by Score of 39 to 23

HARRIMAN WINS TILT

Packed House On Hand For Start of Third Season

The Bristol Youth League opened its third season last night with two games played on the Mutual Aid floor. In the opening contest, the Third Ward Eagles topped the Celtics, 39-23, and in the nightcap, the Harriman team won over the Galzerano's five, 56-51.

A packed house was on hand and witnessed the opening ceremonies. Fred Leyden, a veteran of sports in Bristol for 40 years, tossed up the first ball and the American Legion Cadets furnished the music and did some drilling. President of the league, Ralph Palladino, acted as master of ceremonies and gave a short address on the history of the circuit.

The Eagles' defense was too much for the Celtics in the opener. All during the first half, the Warders blanked the Dellamans from the floor and held them to seven points. With "Bill" McGerr and Donnelly scoring a quartet of field goals each in the second half, the Eagles made the tilt one-sided.

McGerr, Donnelly and Ennis scored ten points each for the winners with Saxton doing a fine job on the defense. "Bill" Wallick scored 19 points against the boys of Jesse Vanzant but he alone furnished the offensive power for the losing aggregation.

The Harriman-Galzerano was a close affair from start to finish. The Fifth Ward team came close to defeating the score towards the finish but two field goals by "Ed" Capriotti put the game on ice for the sixth ward boys.

The most outstanding performance of this game was exhibited by "Flowers" Favorosa, of the losing team. Not only did he score 19 points to lead the scorers but in the second half he succeeded in shutting out "Stan" Lelinski from field goals. Stan scored three in the first half but two fouls was the best he could do for the second half.

Along with Favorosa, "Lefty" DeTanna had 18 points for the Galzerano team while Kenny Martin and Capriotti were high for the winners with 16 and 14 points, respectively. Glenn Shelly played a nice back-court game for Harriman.

The Fifth Ward team appeared wild in their shots at times but the Harriman boys were cool and collective throughout, having a nice passing system which broke up the five-man defense of the losers.

The games were refereed by "Henny" Morgan and "Wally" DeWitt who donated their services for the opening night.

ST. ANN'S DEFEATS ST. MARK'S, 20 TO 10

The Bristol Junior League opened on the Mutual Aid floor with the St. Ann's school five beating St. Mark's, 20-10, in shortened quarters. This game was even at half-time with each team scoring three field goals but in the second half, Gene Spadacino cut the cords with four double-deckers to give St. Ann's the triumph.

Spadacino scored one-half of the St. Ann's points while Coffman and Milligan had four points each for St. Mark's.
